

Award Benoît Pochon Prize

The prize will be given in honor of the memory of Mr. Benoit Pochon, former PhD student in the Radio-Oncology research group of the DBMR. The Benoit Pochon Prize is awarded annually to a DBMR doctoral student, who has successfully finished and defended her / his thesis in a research group of the DBMR at the University of Bern.

Award Benoît Pochon Prize 2020

At the outset of the May 3 DBMR Research Conference, Prof. Dr. med. Daniel M. Aebersold announced the winners of the 2020 Benoît Pochon Prize.

The prize went to:

Dr. med. Haitang Yang

Lab of Prof. R.W. Peng (Thoracic Surgery)

Title of PhD thesis

«Targeting the Mitogen-Activated Protein Kinase Signaling Cascade in KRAS-mutant Lung Cancer and Malignant Pleural Mesothelioma»

Dr. Nicolas Melin

Lab of Prof. D. Stroka (Visceral and Transplantation Surgery)

Title of PhD thesis

«What makes the liver go RILD? Radiation-Induced Liver Disease; Model, Mechanism & Countermeasure»

The DBMR congratulates the two winners!